THE STAR POLICE.

The above represents the origin, rise, and present position of one o' the Star Police, now so famous in this city for the prevention of all sorts of rascality, and especially burglary. There are many of the "stars" whose origin was different from that of the chap with the pipe. One of his own kith is astonished at the flight of ambition which has seized his kin; but he will probably be reconciled to the matter by the perchase, at a low price, of the old hod, and with the recollection that he will go higher on the ladder to fortune in his legitimate business of answering to the calls of "more mort," than in donning the star and assuming the "brief authority" of the day.

Great Meeting of the "Young Guard of the Democracy" on Friday night, at Tammany Hall.

Great Meeting of the "Young Guard of the Democracy" on Frhiby night, at Tammany Hail.

One of the most swrited meetings which we have of late attended, came off on Friday night at the old wigwam of the democracy, Tammany Hail.—At an early hour the young masses began to assemble, and soon filled this large and capacious hall. The meeting was called to order by selecting James T. Brady, Esq., as President, and Messrs. Edwin Santord, I. Floyd Jones, and others, as Vice Presidents Levi D. Slamm, with a score of others, of equal zeal and devotion, were appointed as escretaries. The published call for the meeting was thenread. L. B. Shephard, Esq., chairman of the committee, presented a series of well written, spirited resolutions, deeply imbued with patriotic feelings and sentiments, replete with noble and just views, and bestowing high encomiums upon our deservedly popular and distinguished chief magistrate—disavowing the principle that leaders marshal the masses, or that the masses follow leaders—a public treasury was demanded by the people. A constitutional treasury for the government—and an independent treasury for our own State's security. Texas was acknowledged a sister star in our brilliant galaxy—Oregon was yet twinkling in the distance, and Calhoun and Buchanan, for their recent and masterly correspondence, highly eulogised. To compromise, negotiate, or recede, would be almost criminal, and detract from our national honor, our national dignity. The tariff of '42 was declared an odious and an oppressive law—a violation of our public and our private rights—a monopoly, for the protection of the lordly capitalists of the East to the otherwise growing interests of the West. Gen. Cass was highly complimented for his resolutions of inquiry into the condition of our navy and army—(upon which cheers and other lively tokens of admiration were given)—the question of negro suffrage was unequivocally denounced, and instead of increasing their political priviliges, they should rather be restricted, and not allowed to vot

K. Polk ?" Since that period, too, the bright and lustrous star of Texas has been added to our great and growing country—while another star had paled itself, yet shone above still more resplendent among the luminaries long since departed from among mankind—General Jackson was dead. Yet not so; he lives in the hearts and graticude of the American people, and will ever be remembered and cherished by them—that light has gone out to add its brilliancy in another sphere. He must also be permitted to congratulate all present upon the political death of learny Clay, one, whom to engage, was worthy the determined, and, as it proved, the successful onslaught of the democracy. He was worthy of our efforts, and most nobly had he faillen; while the sneaking and skulking propensities of Daniel Webster, is beyond the worth of our condemnation. He would also beg to be permitted to speak of that party which, at one time, held its gathering under an umbrella in the Park. He, of course, referred to the Native American party, who has for its representation, one shining light left them in their darknoss in the halls of Congress. This light, however, must soon either go to the whigs or come to us. He cannot stand all alone. In a brief review of Folk's Message, one of the ablest state papers which ever yet ensanated from our most distinguished statesmen, he would only say that his views sustained him by a full and a hearty concurrence. We live now not in a conquest of blood, but one of peace and correct principles. He rejoiced that the whigs had, as by one common voice come up so boldly and manfully to meet us in our determinations for the full and undivided possession of Oragon. Oregon we must have; although we sre, at present, quite unprepared to contest. by lorce of arms, our just pretensions. Our may is inefficient; and he was a stailed to say that not a star or stope of any of our national vessels floated in the Nediterianean—yet it was satisfaction that they could be, at any time, appealed to for protection by any of our count

The Queen's Theatre, Christian street—
The most extensive alterations are now being made at this once favorite place of amusement. The whole property has been purchased by a capitalist, who intends to open the theatre as soon as the extensive alterations are completed. The interior of the theatre is completely guited, and will be rebuilt also be rebuilt. Mr. W. J. Hammond, we understand, will be acting manager. The pit will be so constructed as to be applicable to leats of horsemanship.

If a gentleman wants a wife, he wears a ring on the first finger of the lelt hand, if he is engaged, he wears it on the second finger; if married, on the third; and on the feurth, if he never intends to get married, when a lady is not engaged, she wears a hoop or dismond on her first finger; if engaged, on the second; if married, on the third; and on the fourth if she intends to be a maid. When a gentleman presents a fan, a flower, or trinkets to a lady with the left hand, this, on his part is an overture of regard; should she receive it with the left hand, it is considered as an acceptance of his caleem, but if with the right hand, it is a refusal of the offer. Thus, by a few simple tokens, explained by rule, the passion of love is expressed.

General Sessions, Dec. 20.—Before Recorder Tallinadge, and Aldermen Henry and Meserole.

Sentence of Joseph P. Guthrie — The trial of causes during the present term having been brought to a classiast evening, the Court this morning proceeded to passentee in the case of Joseph P. Guthrie, of Philadel phia, who was last week found guilty of obtaining a considerable amount of property by laise pretences, from sunfry merchants of this city. Mr. Guthrie on being clied up, stated to the Court that attempts had been made by his friends to raise money, where with to satisfy the merchants from whom the goods had been obtained, and he had no doubt but their claims would be liquidited. He further stated, that had the trial been postponed as he had desired, he felt conflient that he could have produced a witness who would have shown by his books. Sc., he having been his clark, that all his transactions and been conducted in good faith. He, therefore, under these circumstances, threw himself upon the mercy of the Court.

W. M. Prick, Esq., his counsel, also took occasion to state in behalf of sir. Guthrie, that a process under the Still well Act was pending against his client, which fact he wished the Court to take into consideration.

Alderman Mass. Role, it passing sentence, commended in terms of merited sever ty upon the gross featist that are constantly practised upon merchants of this city, who are subjected to the arts of designing men, who obtain by fraudulent representations large amounts of property; but that in the present case there appeared to be some pallisting circumstances, in consideration of which the sentence of the Court was, that he, Guthrie, be imprisoned in the City Pisson for the term of 60 days, and pay a fine of $100; and stand committed until paid.

Dec. 19.—The Propie ex vel, Sophie Stabler, vs. Christian Bisternam—Upon a writ of habeas corpus issued by this Court from the application and affidavit of Sophie Stabler—the defendant was brought before hi Honor to asswer as to the illegal detention of a promising little lad of seven ye rs of age, the offspring of an illegitimate connection entertained by these parties in Basal, Switzerland, of which country they are the immediate decendents. It appears these parties were betrotted in marriage by the ordinary forms of that country, and that the detendant, soon after the birth of this child, came to America, where he was followed by the compasinant at his solicitation, about a year since, in order to solemnize the marriage covenant—but it seems she was too late, he having assured her that he was similarly implicated in another quarter. The father has maintained the possession of the child since that period—and the mother, a ho is now very respectably married, claims it as her's by rigal rights and privilegas. These facts being fully established, the court decided that it should be given up to the mother, and at the same time wished that the minute particulars, as they appeared in evidence, should be withheld from the public eye. We therefore omit a full detail of them.

Dec 20.—Decisions.—The Mayor, &c. ads. Antonia.

Battistini.—The action in this case was brought against the Corporation under a resolution passed by the late Common Council on the 28th of October, 1844, requesting the Mayor to offer $100, (to be paid on the conviction of the offender) for the detection of any person voting or attempting to vote inlegally at the then appreaching election on the 5th of November.

The Mayor approved and signed the resolution, and in pursuance thereof, on the 31st of October published a notice in the newspapers, offe ing a reward of $100 for the detection and conviction of any person at empting to vote illegally at said election. A man named Stephen Webb was arrested, charged with having attempted to vote illegally. The plaintiff appeared before the police magistrates, and subsequently at his trial at the General Sessions, and gave teatimony against him. He how brings his action to recover the reward, alledging that upon his testimony Webb was detected and convicted.

The Corporation counsel demurred to the declaration, taking several grounds, the principal of which are instituted in the plaintiff seclaration is bad in substance, insegueth as the alleged contract by the defendants with the plaintiff, is insufficiently averred in the declaration. and. That the allegation that Webb attempted to vote illegally, is not sufficient—whether he did or did not vote, is a mixed question of Liw and fact, and the facts upon which this question might be judicially determined, should have been stated in the declaration. Sci. That the Mayor was the party who should have been sued; the contract, (if any) was made by him.

Count—Upon the whole, it is clear that the plaintiff must amend his narrative, and he may as well avoid as many of the objections of form and substance as he can; if when the marrative is thus amended, the definedants think fit to renew the demurear upon the points of substance, relating to the pleasing of it, should be freed from all objections as to verdict should be confirmed with costs.

Wadded, assee, fc., se. Danelly—This was an action brought by plaintiff as the general assee in bankruptey, against defeedant, for availaged debt due by defendant to Marshall & Hammond, bankrupts, for lumber furnished by them to defendant previous to their bankruptey. The defence set up on the trial was a set off; that defendant gave the bankrupts his promissory note for the lumber, which they got cashed for the full amount, which was atill outstanding; and that a part of the lumber only was furnished. On the trial, a non-suit was granted under the direction of the jud e. The plaintiff moves to set aside the non-suit, on the ground that evidence was improperly admitted, The Court decided that the evidence was right in allowing a non-suit. Non-suit confirmed, with cests.

Dec. 20.—Charge of Larceny on the High Seas.—George Pendleton, mate of the American brig Argus, was yesterday brought before the Commissioner, upon the foliowing charge:—It appeared that on the list of November list, the vessel sailed from St. Domingo, having on board a cargo of coffee and logwood, and some specie consigned to different houses in Boston; and, amongst others, $250 of the specie was consigned to Lombard & Whittemore, of Boston, and the vessel itself to Starks W. Lewis, of this city. On the 5th of November, the captain died of yellow fover, and the prisoner, who was mate, succeeded to the command of the brig; she put back, and a new captain was procured, whose authority was limited to navigating the vessel, having no power or authority over the cargo. The vessel arrived in this port on Friday, and, upon examining the species, and comparing it with the bill of lading, it was found that $190 in gold coin was abstracted from the $250 owned by Lombard & Whittemore The suspicion falling upon Perddleton—he having a knowledge of the cargo, and using in charge of the vessel after the death of the captain, complaint was made by Mr. Lewis, the consignee, and awarrant issued, upon which he was arrested; and upon the evidence of the steward, was fully committed to stand his trial for the offence, although it appeared that the missing money was subsequently found.
